Annual Meeting

Dear ABCMCers,

I just got off the phone (Wednesday at 4:30 p.m.) with our guest speaker for the Annual Meeting on Saturday morning at North Shore Baptist Church, and I have to say I'm excited.

Miguel De La Torre is someone "at the top of his game," to borrow a phrase from the sports world, but he isn't at all playing games with the issues of contemporary Christian ethics. He's at the very center of the academic discussion while also speaking directly to the churches and our culture -- that is, he's at the crossroads and helping all of see what needs to be understood and what needs to be done.

I believe this is an unusual opportunity to hear and engage a Baptist brother on the cutting edge.

Larry

Thank You from the Editor

Thank you for granting me the privilege of serving on the ABCMC staff since March 3, 2003. November 14, 2009 will see the end of my work for ABCMC. This is the final issue of eWind for which I am the editor.

Together we have experienced a great deal over the past 6 ½ years. Much of this has been recorded and reported in eWind. Some of it was before eWind, which I started in March of 2005 just before the arrival of Larry Greenfield as our Executive Minister. I am grateful to the many volunteers and colleagues who have helped me with my work for the region.

My position at ABCMC is ending following the 2009 annual meeting. I shall then join the many Americans who have lost their jobs and are looking for new ones. I am sad about that. I am grateful for the opportunity I have had to work with you. I am glad that it is ending on a positive note.

I will miss this work, and I will miss all of you. May God bless and keep you.

With love and gratitude,
Lynne Kelley

P. S. I would like to ask one last favor of you. Okay, three last favors. Please make three toll-free telephone calls to 1-888-436-8427. This toll-free number is provided by Health Care for America Now! to enable all of us to call Congress. Please call the number three times, once for each U.S. Senator and once for your representative in the U. S. House of Representatives. Please tell the aides who answer the phone that you, as a constituent, would like the Senator or Congressperson to support health care reform with a strong public health insurance option.

Regional Office

Dear ABCMC Friends,

The Family Cabinet and I are pleased to report that, beginning later this month, ABCMC will be operating with new arrangements for carrying out our shared ministry, as we shift from an office-centered operation to one in which a reconfigured staff will be largely working out of their homes and regional meetings will be held in churches of the region.

As many of you know, we have tried to remain alert and open to new opportunities, models, and configurations that can achieve efficiencies and enhance effectiveness, recognizing that other regions of the denomination have accomplished this successfully in recent years.

Understandably, we've wanted to find ways of reducing administrative costs associated with space in order both to devote as much of our financial resources to ministries of the region and to narrow our budgetary gaps. A year ago we moved into a smaller, less expensive office space on West Grand Avenue and saved approximately $20,000 annually. But over the past year we've also realized that much of the space we now occupy is devoted to files that aren't used very often and that much of the work that is done in the office could, with some adjustments, be done by staff from their homes – also saving time and expense of staff travel to and from the office.

So we initiated conversations with a number of our churches about the possibilities of placing our files in secured but unused space as well as sharing staff, equipment, and technologies. We are grateful for those churches that entertained the possibility.

The Greater Bethesda Baptist Church at 53rd and Michigan, with the leadership of its pastor, the Rev. David Watkins, indicated that it has a large amount of unused space that it would make available to the region without cost and that it was also interested in discussing ways of sharing administrative staff. We have accepted that generous offer and will be transferring files and equipment to the new location the week of November 16. This step will save the region an additional $11,000 annually.

By sharing staff with Greater Bethesda, and with the (re)retirement of Tony Rake as the Office Assistant, a restructuring and consolidation of staff assignments was required. Jesse Smith will continue as the region's Bookkeeper, working both from home and with officers, committees, and other staff members. The role of Communication Coordinator that Lynne Kelley has so ably filled is being combined with Tony's previous responsibilities and other administrative functions and will now be carried out by Veronica Johnson from Greater Bethesda. Because our special funding for a development officer has become depleted, Lowell Young will also be stepping down as Mission Support Assistant.

I am sure all of you join me in expressing our deep thanks to Lynne, Tony, and Lowell for their significant contributions to the region over these past years. Each of them has been especially helpful to me and, I know, to many others in the region.

The relocation and administrative restructuring will also involve changes in telephone and fax numbers, along with mailing addresses. We will be installing a phone system that will allow callers to link to the telephones of staff members and to our fax machines – we will share these numbers with you next week.

Regular mail will be sent to our new Post Office Box number, which we will also share with you next week. Larger shipments, however, should be sent to our new location:

ABCMC
109 E. 53rd Street
Chicago, IL 60615

Please be patient and understanding with us as we live into this new way of doing the region's business. But do not hesitate to be in communication with me about any questions related to these changes or our on-going work of the region.

In the cause of the Evangel,

Larry Greenfield
Executive Minister

Call to Meeting

TO: American Baptists in Metro Chicago

FROM: Larry Greenfield, Executive Minister, ABCMC

RE: 2009 Annual Meeting
Saturday, November 14
8:30 a.m. – 3:00 p.m.
North Shore Baptist Church, 5244 N. Lakewood Avenue, Chicago

There's hardly any debate about what will be the next big debate in our nation – that is, after the debate about health care gets settled one way or another in the coming weeks.

Virtually everyone agrees that the next big debate will be on immigration policy. It might begin yet this year, but surely will be the dominant public issue in 2010.

As a democratic nation (now mostly) of immigrants built (at least in stated ideals) on the rights and dignity of each and every human being, much is at stake in this forthcoming debate.

Christians have even more at stake, given what the whole Bible and Jesus in particular teaches about welcoming and caring for the stranger, the alien, the foreigner (although in some cases those so-called have an ancestry that is native to this continent).

And that's even more the case for American Baptists in this metropolitan area – in city and suburbs often originally constituted by immigrant communities. Our history as American Baptists here is filled with stories of immigrant churches, of ministries directed toward helping immigrants, of refugee resettlement.

This matter of immigration is in our genetic make-up. So we can't skirt this issue without denying who we have been, and are, and will become. And that's why the theme of our Annual Meeting this year is:

A HISTORIC MISSION RENEWED: THE IMMIGRATION AND REFUGEE CHALLENGE

We can't escape the public policy dimensions of this issue that will be swirling around us in the coming year. We need to have voice – and voices – in that public debate. But, for us, this isn't just about public policy. It's also about all the other dimensions of our Christian ministry.

The Annual Meeting will get us started.

We have outstanding resources lined up. Many of them, of course, are our sisters and brothers in the Region who can and will give personal testimony about what refugees and immigrants face today. And our own Dr. Alvaro Nieves of the Community Baptist Church of Warrenville (and the Department of Sociology of Wheaton College) will be bringing us an understanding of the immigration "context" in the metro Chicago region.

And then we have the incredible good fortune of the Rev. Dr. Miguel A. De La Torre, Professor and Director of the Justice and Peace Institute at Iliff Seminary in Denver, being a featured presenter.

Dr. De La Torre is an ordained Southern Baptist minister who gives a lot of Southern Baptists fits because of his creative and courageous insights about living the Christian life in today's world. But in the world beyond the SBC he is recognized as one of the most important voices in theology and ethics in the country today.

He is the author of more than a dozen groundbreaking books – groundbreaking because he admittedly thinks and writes “from the margins” as once an undocumented immigrant and one who can speak out of his own experience and deep learning.

His most recent book (released just this last week in October) is exactly on our theme: “Trails of Hope and Terror: Testimonies on Immigration” – a simply terrific book that has tremendous relevance for the churches.

We build the morning program in such a way that all of us can learn from and engage him directly. And toward the end of the morning session we’ll devote time to thinking about what we can do distinctively in our various congregations and together as a region.

Miguel A. De La Torre

I urge – that’s the word, urge – you to be a part of this Annual Meeting because of its biblical, theological, and ministerial substance and its relevance to the world in which God has placed us.

We will be treated to Burmese cuisine for lunch, prepared by our relative recent arrived Karen sisters and brothers. And at the lunch we do some recognitions and celebratory things that will be fun and fulfilling (the “filling” part, obviously relates also to the meal!)

The annual business meeting will take place immediately after lunch. Please share this news and invitation with other members of your congregation. And please make reservations by faxing or emailing the office (fax: 773-804-1656; email: office@abcmc.org).

Thinking Theologically

ABCMC’s Executive Minister Larry Greenfield is a very busy guy. In addition to everything he does for ABCMC, he writes a biweekly column for the newsletter of Protestants for the Common Good. Larry’s latest column, “Delivering,” appears at the end of this issue of eWind.

Retired Ministers and Missionaries Offering

This is the time of year when American Baptists bring an offering that says we remember with love and give with gratitude. Since the Great Depression of the 1930's American Baptist congregations have contributed to special offerings to provide financial support to retired ministers and missionaries and their widowed spouses. The Retired Ministers and Missionaries Offering (RMMO) was established in 1977 to continue this tradition.

The RMMO provides you with a tangible way by which to honor, say "thank you" and provide financial assistance to retired American Baptist ministers, missionaries and their widowed spouses who supported you in times of need, guided you on your spiritual journey and provided inspiration.

Recipients of Thank You checks and emergency and other financial assistance express gratitude not only for the gift but for less tangible benefits, such as evidence of God's providential care, encouragement, hope and assurance that they have not been forgotten by their ABC family.

Judge Rules against "I Believe" License Plates in South Carolina

This article by Jeff Huett is from the Baptist Joint Committee for Religious Liberty.

A federal district judge has ruled that a state-sponsored Christian license plate distributed in South Carolina is unconstitutional.

The plates, which feature the phrase "I Believe" with a cross over a stained glass window, were designed as a result of the I Believe Act and passed in both houses of the South Carolina legislature before an injunction halted their distribution.

In the ruling, U.S. District Judge Cameron McGowan Currie wrote that "this case presents a textbook example of the need for and continued vitality of the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution The United States Supreme Court has repeatedly warned that 'government may not promote or affiliate itself with any religious doctrine or organization.'"

Baptist Joint Committee General Counsel K. Hollyn Hollman applauded the decision.

"Religion never benefits when government starts picking certain groups to receive special treatment," Hollman said. "That's precisely what was going on in South Carolina."

The BJC and others have been quick to point out that the "I Believe" plates are different from other specialty plates. These plates were the product of a special initiative of the South Carolina legislature rather than through the normal Department of Motor Vehicles approval process based on a private application by a private organization.

MINISTERS COUNCIL NEWS

Ministers Meeting in Chicago on Friday, November 13

As you read in earlier announcements about ABCMC's Annual Meeting, Dr. Miguel De La Torre will be with us for the weekend of November 13-15. We have arranged for the Ministers Council to have a conversation with him centering on his book Doing Christian Ethics from the Margins. This gathering will be from 1 to 3 p.m. at Central Spanish Baptist Church, 2417 N. Campbell, Chicago. As you know, the book has been recognized as a very important contribution to contemporary Christian ethics. (You don't need to have read the book to participate in the conversation, but is available in book stores and online.)

Linda Tossey, pastor of Community Baptist Church in Warrenville, sent us the following message related to the speaker at both the Ministers Council Meeting on November 13 and ABCMC's Annual Meeting on November 14:

I am thrilled that Miguel De La Torre will be sharing more about his book, Doing Christian Ethics from the Margins at the upcoming Ministers Council. This book was required reading in my Christian Ethics class at United Theological Seminary of the Twin Cities. All I can say is "Wow!" De La Torre speaks from the margins for the marginalized and right from the heart of the gospel. This is a wonderful opportunity for all of us in ABCMC to interact with this highly respected ethicist who calls us to have "eyes to see" through a critically important lens if we are to authentically respond to the gospel imperatives of Christ.

All ABCMC's ministers are invited and encouraged to attend a Ministers Council meeting on Friday, November 13. You are welcome to bring a guest or two, but our colleague and host Shakespeare Osorio would like to have a count, so please email Larry at larry@abcmc.org or phone him at 312-497-0688 to indicate whether you will be attending and how many will be in your group.

Below is some biographical information on Dr. De La Torre.

Born in Cuba, Miguel De La Torre has lived in the United States since he was 6 months old, when his parents fled their native land shortly after Fidel Castro came into power. He became a Southern Baptist as a young adult. He earned his M.Div. at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. After serving for a time as a pastor in rural Kentucky, he continued in graduate school and earned a doctorate in social ethics from Temple University in 1999.

He taught Christian Ethics for several years at Hope College in Michigan. Since 2006 he has taught social ethics at Iliff School of Theology in Colorado.

He is author of numerous articles and several books. In addition to his academic training, his writings draw on his experiences as a Hispanic immigrant in the United States. We are blessed to have him as our guest.

National Rally in Chicago for Health Care Reform

Next Tuesday, November 17, the Association of Health Insurance Providers (AHIP) will be meeting in Chicago. AHIP is the lobbying organization for the health insurance industry. AHIP is the organization largely responsible for the lies that are being spread about health care reform. This is the group responsible for the “astroturfing” that is going on. (Their professional lobbyists gather groups of people to appear to be grass-roots effort opposing health care reform, but it is not a grass-roots effort at all.) These are the folks who brought us the infamous “Harry and Louise” commercials that spread lies and prevented health care reform in 1993.

The American Baptist Churches supported health care reform in 1993, and we still do.

All American Baptists are invited to join in a rally on November 17 with our partners from Health Care for America Now! (a real grass-roots effort with a position virtually identical to ABC's), Illinois Main Street Alliance and other faith groups to let AHIP know that we are onto their untruths, and the American people want health care reform that isn't designed to pad the pockets of the insurance industry.

Supporters of health care reform will be coming from throughout the Midwest. Health Care for America Now! is providing buses from a number of suburban locations to the rally site in the Loop.

Invited candidates include State Senator Bill Brady, State Senator Kirk Dillard, and Andy McKenna. The debate will be moderated by WTTW's Elizabeth Brackett (Chicago Tonight).

Dan Hynes, currently State Comptroller, has said of Illinois' health care system: "The current system is causing people of all ages to go untreated, to travel great distances just to receive basic care, and in some cases, to go deep into debt to pay for expensive services out of pocket...Some of the most vulnerable Illinoisans are being denied service because of a broke health care system."

Pat Quinn, currently Governor of Illinois, says of the state of health care in Illinois, "Access to affordable and adequate health care is essential to the economic well being of every family."

In 2001, Governor Quinn walked across Illinois, from the Mississippi River to Lake Michigan, to raise awareness of the need to provide decent health care for everyone.

Wendell Potter to Be in Chicago November 18

This announcement is from the Illinois Campaign for Better Health Care.

CBHC is delighted to announce that Wendell Potter is joining us as a special guest at our 2009 Annual Meeting Reception!

In a year that has brought many health care heroes into the spotlight, none has so openly detailed the abusive practices of the insurance industry towards consumers as Wendell Potter.

Mr. Potter now serves as the Senior Fellow on Health Care for the Center for Media and Democracy. In announcing his testimony to the Senate Finance Committee, they said he "spent more than 20 years as a public relations executive for two large health insurers - CIGNA and Humana - but left the industry after witnessing practices he felt harmed American health care consumers. To him, there was a heartbreaking discrepancy between Americans struggling to find affordable, comprehensive coverage and wealthy insurance executives who based their premium charges - and coverage decisions - on profits rather than people's health care needs. He decided to come forward in the hopes of stopping the health insurance industry from once again derailing meaningful reform."

Following his testimony in the Senate earlier this year, Time magazine said: "Wendell Potter may be the ideal whistle-blower. The former head of corporate communications for health insurance giant CIGNA, Potter turned against his old colleagues in June to testify before a congressional committee about what he viewed as the health insurance industry's "duplicitous" behavior in the current health reform debate. In his testimony, Potter outlined specific techniques insurers employ to "dump the sick" and protect stock price at all costs."

On Wednesday, November 18, please join CBHC in welcoming Wendell Potter to this intimate gathering, in his only one on one Illinois appearance. The reception will be held at Carnivale (702 W Fulton St., Chicago) from 6-7:30, and tickets are available online for $50.

The House Passed a Bill, But...

This information is from Health Care for America Now!

As you know from all the news media, the U. S. House of Representatives passed a health care reform bill this past Saturday. Now the Senate must pass a bill, and then the two bodies must come to terms and pass legislation to reform our health care system. Since many articles in the media are vague about the contents of the House bill, we are publishing some clarifications.

The biggest problem we have with the bill that was passed is that too many of the changes won't take effect until 2013. But in the House Bill, we have a strong, national public option that will open up to the public over the course of three years (initially only available to those not insured by employer), and it has good affordability provisions (subsidies up to $88,000 for a family of four) and progressive financing (funded by a tax on those making above $500,000 as an individual, $1 million for a couple). A number of the changes will, however, take place immediately.

TOP 14 PROVISIONS THAT TAKE EFFECT IMMEDIATELY

- 1. BEGINS TO CLOSE THE MEDICARE PART D DONUT HOLE —Reduces the donut hole by $500 and institutes a 50% discount on brand-name drugs, effective January 1, 2010.
- 2. IMMEDIATE HELP FOR THE UNINSURED UNTIL EXCHANGE IS AVAILABLE (INTERIM HIGH-RISK POOL) —Creates a temporary insurance program until the Exchange is available for individuals who have been uninsured for several months or have been denied a policy because of pre-existing conditions.
- 3. BANS LIFETIME LIMITS ON COVERAGE—Prohibits health insurance companies from placing lifetime caps on coverage.
- 4. ENDS RESCISSIONS—Prohibits insurers from nullifying or rescinding a patient's policy when they file a claim for benefits, except in the case of fraud.
- 5. EXTENDS COVERAGE FOR YOUNG PEOPLE UP TO 27TH BIRTHDAY THROUGH PARENTS' INSURANCE—Requires health plans to allow young people through age 26 to remain on their parents' insurance policy, at the parents' choice.
- 6. ELIMINATES COST-SHARING FOR PREVENTIVE SERVICES IN MEDICARE—Eliminates co-payments for preventive services and exempts preventive services from deductibles under the Medicare program.
- 7. IMPROVES HELP FOR LOW-INCOME MEDICARE BENEFICIARIES—Improves the low-income protection programs in Medicare to assure more individuals are able to access this vital help.
- 8. PROVIDES NEW CONSUMER PROTECTIONS IN MEDICARE ADVANTAGE—Prohibits Medicare Advantage plans from charging enrollees higher cost-sharing for services in their private plan than what is charged in traditional Medicare.
- 9. IMMEDIATE SUNSHINE ON PRICE GOUGING—Discourages excessive price increases by insurance companies through review and disclosure of insurance rate increases.
- 10. CONTINUITY FOR DISPLACED WORKERS—Allows Americans to keep their COBRA coverage until the Exchange is in place and they can access affordable coverage.

11. CREATES NEW, VOLUNTARY, PUBLIC LONG-TERM CARE INSURANCE PROGRAM—Creates a long-term care insurance program to be financed by voluntary payroll deductions to provide benefits to adults who become functionally disabled.

12. HELP FOR EARLY RETIREES—Creates a $10 billion fund to finance a temporary reinsurance program to help offset the costs of expensive health claims for employers that provide health benefits for retirees age 55-64.

13. COMMUNITY HEALTH CENTERS—Increases funding for Community Health Centers to allow for a doubling of the number of patients seen by the centers over the next 5 years.

14. INCREASING NUMBER OF PRIMARY CARE DOCTORS —Provides new investment in training programs to increase the number of primary care doctors, nurses, and public health professionals.

THINKING THEOLOGICALLY ABOUT THE COMMON GOOD

November, 2009 by Larry Greenfield

“Delivering”

You have to wonder what would have happened if Eli the priest hadn’t delivered.

He had plenty of reasons to pay no attention to the woman praying at the edge of the Temple. The old priest probably had a lot more important things on his “to do” list than give this woman any of his time. And besides, it appeared that the woman had been imbibing a little too much wine – that’s what old Eli assumed because the woman was moving her lips but he couldn’t hear any sounds, any voice, any words.

So when he approached the woman, it certainly wasn’t because he wanted to commend her for her devotion in coming to the Temple, or to aid her in her prayerful supplications. It was just the opposite: he approached her to condemn Hannah, to chastise her, to shame her into changing her ways. (“How long will you be drunken? Put away your wine from you.” I Samuel 1: 14)

But Hannah quickly explained that she wasn’t drunk at all, that she had come to the Temple out of her “great anxiety and vexation” for not being able to have a child by her husband, Elkanah – unlike Elkanah’s other wife (Peninnah) with whom he had many children.

Hannah repeated to Priest Eli the prayer that had been in her heart and on her lips but couldn't be voiced: "O Lord of hosts, if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thy maidservant, and remember me, and not forget thy maidservant, but wilt give thy maidservant a child, then I will give him to the Lord all the days of his life, and no razor shall touch his head." (That bit about the razor had to do with the child being dedicated to an especially disciplined, even ascetic, religious life.

The old priest took her at her word and told Hannah: "Go in peace, and the God of Israel grant your petition which you have made to him."

Eli, that is, delivered. So did the God who heard the prayers of Hannah and Eli. And so, in time, did Hannah.

As the biblical text reports: "And Elkanah knew Hannah his wife, and the Lord remembered her; and in due time Hannah conceived and bore a son, and she called his name Samuel, for she said, 'I have asked him of the Lord.'"

That son, it turns out, became the one who anointed David the king of Israel.

So you really do have to wonder what would have happened if Eli the priest hadn't delivered.

* * * * *

The House of Representatives delivered over the weekend. It passed, by the narrowest of margins, a health care insurance program that would eventually cover about 96% of Americans, irrespective of their employment status or earning conditions, disallow the denial of coverage based on pre-existing health conditions, and provide a public health insurance option to reduce costs through competition and to make coverage available to those who would be otherwise excluded. It wasn't as much as many of us wanted, especially compared with the health coverage provided by other nations, yet it was an important and large step.

But you have to wonder what would have happened if the House hadn't delivered.

Would we have decades more of the most prosperous (even in recessionary times) and most medically talented nation in the history of the world delivering health care in such a way that at least 45 million people would be without health insurance and over 60 million underinsured?

Or might the U.S. Congress have had to fall back to the alternative Republican health care insurance plan? That plan certainly would be less costly ($61 billion over a decade, compared to more than a trillion dollars for the one that passed this weekend), but would increase coverage by only a couple of million over those ten years. Actually, when all the calculations are made, the Republican bill would leave us, as a country, essentially where we are today – with projections that 52 million people who would not be covered by the single payer Medicare system still remaining uncovered – around 17 percent of that non-Medicare population. And the Republican plan allows insurance companies to deny coverage based on pre-existing conditions, allows no tax credits or subsidies for purchase of insurance, and allows the insurance companies to drop their patrons because of the patrons' illnesses.

That's a lot like Eli the priest choosing to walk away from the vexed and anxious Hannah.

Or maybe the Congress could follow the lead of Senator Joseph Lieberman (Independent of Connecticut), who acknowledged back in August (on CNN's program "State of the Union") that "we morally, every one of us, would like to cover every American with health insurance," but just can't afford to be moral at a time when the economy is in trouble and the cost is just over a trillion dollars. (This is the same Senator Lieberman who proposed last February raising taxes by billions of dollars to fund the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan.)

Those scenarios are, at least for the moment, only hypothetical about what could have happened over the weekend. But like Eli, the House of Representatives delivered.

Still, you do have to wonder about a bi-partisan group of Representatives – 215 of them – who, to use Senator Lieberman's frame of reference, chose to set aside morality in their political priesthood for other priorities. Or, to use President Obama's, terms: chose not to answer the call of history.

Another set of political priests – members of the Senate – will, of course, have their chance to take or forsake a moral stand and to answer or ignore the call of history in the coming weeks. So we will again face the question of whether enough of them will decide to deliver.

But it doesn't end there.

In the Protestant Christian traditions there is a central teaching that the priesthood isn't and can't be confined to some special class or rank or order of the faith. Instead there is the understanding that every believer is a priest – a mediator between God and humanity as a follower of Jesus the Christ. It's the idea that everyone serves as an Eli to the Hannahs of this world.

If we find ourselves in this Protestant Christian body of believers, therefore, we've got priestly work to do in the coming weeks. That priestly work certainly includes lifting up our prayers to a loving and merciful God for all the anxious and vexed Hannahs who don't have health insurance in our country or don't have enough of it.

But our prayers will be even more effective if we are mediators – priests – between those Hannahs and the Senators who will be deciding the place of morality in their political vocations and how they will be recorded in the call of history.

It isn't just a question of whether the Senate, like the House of Representatives, will deliver. It's the question also that is being put to us who, by our faith, claim to stand with Eli, as well as our High Priest.
